BLACK HOLES FILLED WITH GHOSTS FROM THE PAST

Guest speakers: Dr. Haydée Faimberg, Ms. Angela Joyce

The CPS Congress will feature concurrent individual and panel sessions of papers (5,000 words maximum) as well as Work/Study groups, with ample time for discussion.

The CPS National Scientific Programme Committee invites submissions of Abstracts of original and unpublished material of all sorts. We invite you to write about what interests you as well as on topics touching on the congress theme of trauma and its intergenerational transmission.

Submission instructions:

The National Scientific Committee invites presentations in the following formats:

- Paper
 - Workshop
 - Symposium
- Papers are formal presentations on theoretical topics or clinical cases. At least 30% of the time is to be devoted to interaction with the session registrants.
 - Workshops are oriented to specific topics or themes and will offer various viewpoints and perspectives. The workshops can be led by several facilitators and are expected to be highly interactive.
 - Symposia are more formal sessions on clinical or theoretical topics, offering at least three presentations and a discussion format from a panel of experts. Different points of view are developed by authors from various regions or branches. The global abstract for the symposium must include an abstract for each of the presentations.

Topics for presentations could be oriented to a:

- paper on a clinical and/or a theoretical issue;
- panel discussion on a controversial topic;
- summary of the work done in a study group or a seminar;
- presentation of research results;
- discussion on a question of ethics and/or confidentiality;
- essay in “applied” psychoanalysis;
- multidisciplinary or interdisciplinary psychoanalytic study;
- presentations favouring more interaction and involving analysts from other societies: panel, workshop, video.

Papers, workshops and symposia are usually planned for 90 minutes. Exceptionally, with the agreement of the organising committee, workshops and symposia could be extended to 2x90 minutes.
